

Recently Clear Channel communications has taken down my favorite Dallas radio station. Now there is no real rock station in the area. As a result, I purchased XM radio and love the fact that I can still be my local traffic and weather. Taking this away would force me to listen to another station on the FM or AM dial, which is an inconvenience to change formats when driving.